Joy also introduced Peter Tkaczyk who is our new webmaster. He was not able to attend the meeting.

It was asked that the Board review and approve the minutes. The motion was carried.

Regional Championship – Laura was able to get 13 volunteers. Center Line is paying $75 for scribes and $50 for stewards who require housing and lunch, those who don't will be paid $100 and $75 respectively. This was a great turn outcome.

The next Piaffe Flyer is slated for November.

The next schooling show will be held on 9/25/22. It is a fix-a-test, and should fill up. There are only 16 rider slots.

Joy Black is willing judge and will charge $50.00 the board agreed voted and deemed no conflict of interest paying Joy for this show.

Currently, there are no applicants for the ENYDCTA scholarship. There is one applicant for "Member of the Year."

Linda Zang update. Amateur clinic is filling up faster than the instructor clinic. There remains space in both clinics.

Annual Banquet is set and deposit has been paid. Joy proposed a speaker coming and discuss how to be a better rider. Joy thought Holly McNeil might be a good fit. Jeff agreed that a speaker would be a good idea, but also wanted to insure that this should be fun. There was a suggestion to address winter riding/horsemanship, such as keeping a horse and rider fit.

Denise previously had reached out to sponsors for the end of year awards. She shared that she had reached out to tack and feed stores. She will reach out to the same vendors again this year. It was suggested that we also connect with local veterinarians to participate in the silent auction.

It was thought that we could do both a live and online auction.

New Business:

Joy suggested that we buy a dressage arena. The cost would be around $3,900.00. There would also be costs associated with storing it.

Josh reached out to Barb Sanford and Anita Castricone for stalls rentals for Linda Zang clinic. Combined they have 3 stalls available.

Jeff will look into the 4H center to see if their stalls can be used. Jeff will also reach out to Dr. Kulikowski. The board all mentioned ideas around local barns that might have day stalls. Laura, Jeff and Josh will reach out to a variety of barns to see what options are available.

There was a request to get signage for ENYDCTA events. Josh will reach out to Margie Hutchinson to see where she gets her signs made for events.

A motion was made to adjourn the meeting, the motion was seconded and carried.
